DEMOCRATIC

Louisville and Jefferson County Nominees Were Well and Ably Chosen.

Paul C. Barth Was Elected as City's Chief Executive Officer.

SOMETHING ABOUT THE OTHER RACES

The election in Louisville and Jefferson county on Tuesday was marked by no serious disturbance marked the event. As was expected, the Democratic nominees were victorious. The daily newspapers lined up on opposite sides and made confusion worse confounded by dealing in language that was reprehensible, vituperative and occasionally positively indecent. Men were incited to hear arms in order to assert their rights. Fortunately the people were more temperate in their conduct than their would-be editorial leaders. Men who had all to gain and nothing to lose let their pens act before their brains, if they have any, worked. But Louisville is a good old town and her people are kindly. The great majority declined to be led by editorial hellwhackers. The citizens voted for their friends and their homes. They elected capable, honest, intelligent gentlemen to preside over the affairs of city and county.

Paul C. Barth, the Democratic nominee, was elected Mayor over his Fusionist opponent, Joseph T. O'Neal, by a majority of something over 5,000. The exact figures can not be given in any of the races until the official count is made.

While the main interest centered in the Mayoralty contest, there were many who were interested in the other races. E. T. Schmitt won a decisive victory over his Fusionist opponent, Capt. H. N. Gifford, in the race for City Treasurer. Lyne C. Herndon was elected City Auditor by a handsome majority, and Thomas A. Shelley was made the choice of the people for Tax Receiver during the next four years. Judge John McCann, too, was paid a splendid tribute for his long and faithful service as a public official by his election for another term over such a cultured gentleman as Wheeler McGee. Prosecuting Attorney Robert J. Hagman made a record during his first term that he was honored with re-election, and Billy Bosler, the man with the original smile-that-won't-come-off, gets a third term as Sheriff of the Police Court. Alfred V. Oldham won handsomely in the race for re-election as Clerk of the Police Court.

Despite the work of ingrates, Charles A. Wilson was elected County Judge. Four years hence Mr. Wilson will have made a record that only law breakers can attack. William J. Semonin, the Democratic nominee for County Clerk, left his Fusionist opponent at the post, while Robert W. Bingham succeeds himself as County Attorney.

Henry A. Bell, the old war horse of the Democratic party, not only helped to pilot the Democratic bark to victory, but sailed into port as Sheriff of Jefferson county, a position that he held before, and which he filled with credit. So well had Mrs. Rosa Stonestreet demonstrated her ability as Superintendent of County Schools that the people gave her an endorsement by electing her for another term. John R. Pfanz made a splendid race for a election and came under the wire a winner by several lengths. Dr. Harris Kelly was re-elected Coroner and Robert Young succeeded himself as County Surveyor. 'Squire Adams blossoms forth as County Assessor and will make a good one. Messrs. Castleman, Seelbach and Leyer, the Democratic nominees, were elected Park Commissioners, while the motion to amend the constitution by changing from the secret to the viva voce system of voting was defeated.

All the Democratic Aldermen and Councilmen were elected, and almost as soon as the result was known the friends of Alderman Charles F. Taylor began to boom him for Chairman of the board. Mr. Taylor has the knowledge, the experience, the courage and the integrity to fill the office. The Democratic party might go farther and fare worse in its efforts to secure a man to preside over its legislative affairs.

In the State Senatorial races H. S. McNutt was elected over his Fusionist opponent to represent the Thirty-sixth district. Mr. McNutt's majority is not large, but in view of the fact that he was so bitterly fought he was lucky to win at all. Albert H. Charlton was re-elected from the Thirty-eighth district by a safe majority.

One of the closest races in the city was between Emmet Slattery and Lee Bernheim for Representative from the Forty-eighth district, composed of the Sixth and Seventh wards. Mr. Slattery, the Democratic nominee, appears to be the winner by a small but safe majority. Mr. Slattery is a young man and an able lawyer. His opponent, Mr. Bernheim, is also young and is prominent in Main street circles. They were candidates in a section known to be aristocratic and it is a credit to Mr. Slattery to have been elected by the voters of his district.

The Democratic nominees in all the other races for Representatives were elected by safe majorities. Every Democratic nominee for Magistrate and Constable in the city and county was elected.

ETERNAL LIFE

Is Now the Portion of Captain Michael P. Barry.

Simple yet solemn were the last rites over the mortal remains of Capt. Michael P. Barry last Saturday morning. He died, as he had lived, a good Catholic, and when the body that once held his soul was brought to St. Louis Bertrand's church the stately edifice was filled with friends who knew him in life. Some of them were politicians who had befriended him and had been by him in turn befriended; others had been his associates on the police force. Some there were who worked with him as mechanics thirty years ago; others came because they knew he had faithfully guarded their property. And among the throng that came to do honor to his remains were quite a number of widows of former policemen. To them Mike Barry had been a friend in time of trouble and distress. To them he was not Capt. Barry, nor Mr. Barry, but plain Irish "Mike." They loved him for the good he had done, because he was a true friend in time of need or trouble. He had felt and knew the pulse of human nature, and had ever carried out the injunction:

"To thine ownself be true,
And then it follows, as the night the day,
Thou canst not then be false to any man."

The Rev. Father Kernan, O. P., celebrated the solemn mass of requiem, gave a final blessing to the remains of the deceased and preached the funeral sermon. A fitting one it was. Capt. Barry needed no eulogy. Father Kernan preached to the living, not to the dead.

He told those assembled that they had come to witness the last rites of the church to one of her children. The ceremonies there performed consigned the body to the grave, but reminded those still living that they were tending in the same direction. Nothing is more certain nor uncertain, said the reverend speaker. We all know that we have to die, but we do not know the day nor the hour. It was a parody, said Father Kernan, for a man to profess Catholicity and yet to live contrary to the laws of God and the church.

The soul of your dead friend, he said, is in the hands of God, who is to judge him and to judge all of us. He was placed here like me and you to prove and improve ourselves. Pray that you will not be found wanting when your time comes, and in your prayers do not forget to pray for the soul of this your departed friend.

Many friends followed the remains to their last resting place in St. Louis cemetery. The pall bearers were William Chavik, Steve Keeley, Dennis Meagher, Nicholas Carey, Patrick Kenesley and William M. Higgins.

WELL ATTENDED

Was Celebration of Anniversary of St. John's Conference.

St. John's conference of the St. Vincent de Paul Society celebrated the forty-ninth anniversary of its organization at St. John's Hall, Clay and Walnut streets, at 4 o'clock last Sunday afternoon. Edward J. O'Brien, of St. Patrick's conference; Thomas K. Hines, of Sacred Heart conference, and Thomas Peely, of St. Charles Borromeo conference, made brief congratulatory addresses to the members of St. John's. The Very Rev. Father Louis J. Deppen, who has for years taken an active interest in the St. Vincent de Paul Society, also made the splendid address on the good work of the order in general and of St. John's conference in particular. The Very Rev. Father Lawrence Baz, who has been Spiritual Director of St. John's conference since its organization, also made an address giving reminiscences of days long since past.

Dr. J. C. Metcalfe, who was the first President of the conference, sent a letter expressing his regret that he was not physically able to be present at the meeting. Dr. Metcalfe has lived at Lagrange during the past two or three years, but still retains his membership in the conference at St. John's. It was expected that John Murray and Thomas Hill, two of the oldest members, would have something to say, but though they were both present neither addressed the assemblage.

Within a few weeks the Altar Society of St. John's congregation will celebrate its fiftieth anniversary.

LOYAL TO MCLARTY.

The stockholders of the First National Bank are to be congratulated in keeping Clint C. McClarty at the head of that institution. It was the first national bank organized south of the Ohio river, and since Mr. McClarty has been connected with the bank, in 1894, the deposits have steadily increased from a few hundred thousand dollars to $3,250,000. The stockholders remained loyal to Mr. McClarty when the Lewman forces undertook to wrest the control of the bank from him. The bank is now well officered and is in splendid shape financially, thanks to the ability of its President.

KERRY

Has Given Her Share of Martyrs in the Cause of Catholic Faith.

Many Priests Gave Up Their Life's Blood in Its Defense.

Death Had No Terrors For These Sturdy Sons of Ireland.

MEN OF SAME BLOOD ARE HERE

Some years ago, during a small-pox plague in Ireland, a man ignorant as the world goes, but of a great and abiding faith, lay dying in a pest house. Relatives and friends who were recovering from the dread disease stood around and lamented that if he died his body could not be buried in consecrated ground.

"Dig deep! Dig deep!" said the dying man. "There is not a foot of ground in all Ireland that has not been consecrated by the blood of martyrs."

If this poor fellow was ignorant about worldly matters he was thoroughly conversant with Irish history. There is not a county in Ireland that has not had its martyrs, though all of them have not been canonized. The County Kerry certainly had its share of men who gave their lives for the faith that was in them and not a few of them were priests—Franciscans and Dominicans. A writer in the Hibernian, an esteemed contemporary, published in Boston, says:

"Among the poor,
Or on the moor,
Where hide the pious and the true—
While traitor knave,
And recreant slave
Had riches, rank and retinue."

So sang the Protestant writer, Thomas Davis, in describing the condition to which the penal laws had reduced the people of Ireland. Indigence, poverty, suffering and persecution were the lot of the unfortunate Irish Catholic. Plundered, homeless, outlawed, trampled on, his very existence was a crime, while the enemies of the ancient faith and supporters of the brand new religion of the sixteenth century were liberally endowed with the confiscated possessions of the native population. The clergy were hunted down like wolves, with prices on their heads, and many were slaughtered while in the very act of offering up the glorious sacrifice of the mass. In Kerry the persecution to which the priests and people were subjected during the long dark night of the penal code was no less merciless than in other portions of the country, as the instances of martyrdom we give will help to show.

Daniel Hinecham, Philip O'Shea and Maurice O'Scanlan, O. S. F., were natives of Kerry. They were priests, and for more than thirty years had preached throughout different parts of Ireland. When the rest of the brethren heard that the Puritans were coming to seize them, says Bruodin, they could not accompany them, owing to old age and loss of sight. The youngest of them was over seventy years of age. They took refuge in the church of their monastery in the town of Lislaughtin, near Ballylongford. They were seized and dragged before the high altar and there beaten with sticks and run through with the sword. The date of their death is April 6, 1580.

Laurence O'Moore was descended from a very ancient and respectable family in Ireland, says Bruodin. He was a priest remarkable for holiness of life, as Sander testifies. When the Spanish Gen. San Jose surrendered the castle of Smerwick, in the western part of County Kerry, to Lord Grey, who was then deputy, the conditions were that the garrison should be allowed to march out with their arms, ammunition and other property. But the Puritans did not think themselves bound either by their oath or by the laws that are held sacred even by barbarous nations. The Spaniards, nine hundred in number, were made to give up their arms and all but ten and the cowardly commander either cast into the sea or slain in cold blood.

O'Moore and two Irishmen of noble birth, Oliver Plunkett and William Walsh, were taken there also. These the Deputy required to be handed over to him. He strove to induce them to abjure the Catholic faith and to embrace Protestantism and when they refused, said that "with God's grace they would continue even until death to profess the Catholic faith," he sent them to a blacksmith's forge and had their limbs broken to pieces with a hammer. This butchery lasted for twenty-four hours. During all that time these noble men displayed extraordinary courage, having been strengthened with the sacraments which they had received from Father Laurence. All three expired almost at the same moment, their last words being: "Into Thy hands, O Lord, I commend my spirit." They were put to death August 5, 1580.

The State papers confirm fully the above narrative: "This day was executed an Englishman who served Dr. Sanders, one Plunkett and an Irish priest. Their arms and legs were broken, and hanged upon a gallows upon the wall of the fort."

Cornelius O'Brien, Lord of Carrick, and Pather Ward were hanged from the yard-arms of a ship near the mouth of the Shannon in 1542 because they would not renounce their faith. Francis O'Sullivan, O. S. F., a member of the family of the former princes of Bear and Bantry, and lecturer in his order, was shot to death in a cavern in 1651. A year later Lord John O'Connor, chief of his family in Kerry, was hanged by Cromwell because he would not give up the faith.

Gerald Fitzgibbon, O. P., a Dominican famed for his learning, was slain by the priest hunters in the village of Listowel in 1691. In 1651 Cornelius McCarthy was put to death because he was a priest and would not abjure the faith. Tadig Moriarty, O. P., another Dominican prior of the convent at Tralee, was slain in 1641 because he was a defender of the faith. From the top of the ladder he exhorted the faithful to be patient and to hold fast to the faith. Having recited: "Into Thy Hands, O Lord, I commend my spirit," he met a glorious death, the Cromwellians being struck with admiration and saying, "If ever a priest was a martyr, he was one."

The penal laws have passed away, not, however, without leaving their mark on the national character. They have failed in their fiendish design, and Ireland is today as true to the church as at any period in our country's history. "Through all the ors no land more true Than our own old Catholic land, Through ages of blood to the Rock she stood, True may she ever stand."

Here in Louisville we have Hanrahans, Scanlans, Sullivans, McCarthys, Moores, Walshs, Wards and Moriartys. In their veins flow the same blood that flowed in the veins of those old defenders of the faith. It is upon them and their descendants that America must depend for the maintenance of her spiritual and temporal welfare.

RECENT DEATHS.

Louisville lost one of her loveliest ladies Wednesday morning when Mrs. Katherine Higgins died at her home at Forty-second and Chestnut streets after an illness of less than one week. The deceased is survived by her husband, J. M. Higgins, and four children. The sons are Robert Higgins, of the Evening Post, and Charles L. Higgins, of Terre Haute. Her daughters are Mrs. Ernest Edwards and Mrs. Dan Hodges, both of Louisville. The funeral took place from the residence Thursday afternoon. The deceased lady was fifty-eight years old and had spent the greater part of her life in Louisville. Her grief-stricken husband and children have received many expressions of sympathy over her demise.

The cold hand of death was laid on Mrs. Anna Barbara Knobel, a most excellent lady, last Saturday afternoon. She had suffered long from Bright's disease and died at the family residence, 1220 Sixth street. Her husband, Frank Knobel, general manager of the Muldoon Monument Company, and two daughters, Mrs. Louise Caughthain, of Jacksonville, Ore., and Miss Lillian Knobel, survive her. Mrs. Knobel was sixty-five years old and had spent the greater part of her life in Louisville. She had been ill several years, but bore her sufferings with heroic Christian fortitude. The many friends of the family sympathize with Mr. Knobel and his daughters in their grief.

The funeral of Miss Susie Finn, who died at the family residence, 2425 Griffiths avenue, early Saturday morning, took place from St. Cecilia's church on Monday morning and was largely attended by relatives and friends. The deceased was the daughter of Mrs. Catherine and the late Patrick Finn. Miss Finn was seventeen years old and just budding into womanhood. Her death is regretted by a large circle of friends.

Many sorrowing friends accompanied the remains of William Francis Heffren to St. Aloysius' church, where the last rites were solemnized on Sunday afternoon. The deceased was twenty years old and had suffered from tuberculosis. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Catherine Heffren, of 1419 Payne street, who has the sympathy of many friends in her bereavement.

Lillie Mae Koertner, the interesting two-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Albert J. Koertner, died at the family residence, 2227 West Main street, Monday afternoon. Funeral services were held at St. Anthony's church on Wednesday morning. The grief-stricken parents have received many expressions of condolence over their bereavement.

William A. Kehoe, the beloved son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kehoe, died at the family residence, 804 East Walnut street, on Wednesday. The little fellow was only four years old and his death was the occasion of great grief to the parents. The funeral took place Friday afternoon.

Charles Ricketts, Sr., a respected citizen of the West End, died early Monday morning at his home, 1519 Fifteenth street. The funeral took place from the Sacred Heart church on Wednesday morning.

FATHER HIGGINS COMING.

The Rev. John J. Higgins, of Skaneateles, N. Y., is expected to arrive in Louisville soon to pay a visit to his brother, William M. Higgins, editor of the Kentucky Irish American. Father Higgins has paid several visits to Louisville and made many friends who will be glad to renew their acquaintance on his approaching visit.

HARMONY

Prevailed at St. John's Social Session Catholic Knights of America.

Able Addresses Made by Stanch and Tried Members of the Order.

Uniform Rank Enlarged as a Means of Increasing Membership.

SPEAKERS AND WHAT THEY SAID

Members of the Catholic Knights of America from all over the city enjoyed a regular love feast at the social session of St. John's branch, at Clay and Walnut streets, last Monday night. The meeting not only brought together many of the oldest members of the order, but it assembled many of those who had held widely divergent views. In the speeches made during the evening all expressed loyalty to the great body to which they belong. The meeting is bound to bring about beneficial results.

William T. Meehan called the meeting to order, but retired a few minutes later in favor of President F. L. De Leuil, who had been delayed. Secretary Albert F. Martin read a letter from Supreme President Gaudin that was full of interest to all present and was received with applause. President Gaudin expressed the opinion that all the branches in the United States could be increased and many new branches organized if the members would lend their aid. The letter closed with an appeal to the members to act in the work of organization.

William T. Meehan reported that he had visited the Central Committee and expressed his pleasure on the manner in which that body received him. He urged all to attend the next meeting of that body, so that they might see what the committee was doing.

President Newton G. Rogers, of the Central Committee, said he had none but pleasant recollections of Branch 25 in the old days, when he was Supreme Secretary. He complimented the officers and members on their splendid attendance. In speaking of the Central Committee President Rogers said it was a clearing house for the local branches of the Catholic Knights of America, and asked Branch 25 to send a good delegation to its committee at the meeting to be held Friday night. He dwelt at considerable length on the State laws regulating fraternal insurance orders and told how the Knights had to fight against unjust legislation.

Among others who made brief addresses were Patrick Holley, Col. Michael Reichert, Joseph P. McGinn, Henry Bosquet, Harry Veeneman and William M. Higgins. Ex-Supreme Trustee McGinn said he was pleased to be with the branch and realize the good will and new life that was manifest and the apparent desire to build up the order until it numbered a hundred thousand. He urged Branch 25 to again send delegates to the Central Committee, a body that was organized in St. John's Hall.

Col. Michael Reichert, who has represented the order in State and national councils, was called upon to tell how his branch had attained such large proportions, and to state what was being done toward organizing the uniform rank. In his response he said that the Catholic Knights of America was the grandest fraternal society in the United States, and the ill-feeling that existed one year ago had entirely disappeared. All members, he said, are now paying their actual insurance, and years hence, when the last member dies, his insurance will await the beneficiaries. Col. Reichert said he thought the uniform rank would enthrall the young men, and that the first company organized would be followed by many others. He gave a synopsis of what took place at the recent meeting in Chicago and the impression the rank made upon him. A company was now being formed here, he said, and would be soon fully equipped. He said that many of those who left the order several years ago were now regretting their action. Col. Reichert in conclusion said he hoped for a phenomenal boom in the order within the next few years, when all Catholic young men would become members.

Patrick Holley said he felt especially gratified to see such a large attendance. He was always delighted to speak and work for the order. He made a strong plea for confidence and unity, after which there would be no personal enmities between the members. Mr. Holley stated that he had been Secretary of his branch for twenty-seven years and that he had always felt that the Supreme Council was wise, and praised the Kentucky delegates for their good work. During the crisis one year ago Branch 21 only lost four members. Now that the trouble was passed, new applications were coming in.

Henry Bosquet, of Branch 45, said he was proud to represent a congregation (St. Mary's) that had organized the first company of cadets, whose members he predicted would eventually become Catholic Knights of America. He said he hoped all congregations would encourage the youths and provide them with uniforms. He also said it would advance them in many ways and would provide them with legitimate amusement. He read a personal letter from Supreme President Gaudin and paid him a high compliment.

Harry Veeneman, former State President and founder of the Central Committee, said he felt at home with Branch 25, where he was well taught the principles of the order. St. Michael's branch, he stated, had not lost a man on account of retreating. He recounted the work of the Central Committee during the past five years. St. John's branch had a good field, he said, and should continue to grow. He thought it would be a good idea for the pastors to attend the meetings of their respective branches. He offered his services to the various branches to help in whatever capacity he might be called upon.

William M. Higgins, editor of the Kentucky Irish American, was called upon and talked to those assembled on the business methods to be pursued. E. J. Mann arose in response to many calls and stated that he had always had confidence in the order and wanted all to follow his example in sticking to it. He moved that delegates be sent to the Central Committee. The motion was carried amid great applause. To Mr. Mann in a great measure belongs the credit for Branch 25 holding up its end in the crisis through which the order passed during the past year.

William T. Meehan expressed himself as jubilant over the meeting and made an interesting comparison between the Knights and other fraternal insurance societies. In so doing he brought out some startling facts and made a strong plea for the introduction of the new ritual and the uniform rank. He wanted everything possible done to add interest to the meetings. He said every member should have a pride in these matters and that the respective branches should not be picaresque in providing amusement that would please young and old.

Before adjourning the following delegates were chosen to the Central Committee: President F. L. DeLeuil, Charles Desse, William T. Meehan, William Stuckenberg and Albert F. Martin.

During the evening the several speakers paid their respects to the Kentucky Irish American for the stand it had taken in favor of the order during the crisis through which it had passed.

CHRISTIAN BROTHERS

Invested With Habit During Interesting Religious Ceremonies.

Before a large and distinguished audience of Christian Brothers, representing many States, seventeen young men of two terms probation as candidates of the order were invested with the religious habit of the order at the novitiate, Amendale, Md. The ceremonies, which were most beautiful and inspiring, were opened in the chapel of the institution and continued in the lecture hall of the senior novitiate in the presence of the members of the various departments of the normal institute. The speaker on the occasion was the Rev. Brother Irnie, provincial of the order in the United States.

Taking as an illustration for his discourse the example of St. Bernard, who, with his five brothers, entered religion, leaving the youngest to remain with the paternal estate in the world, the reverend speaker eulogized in an eloquent manner the noble generosity of those who, notwithstanding the prospects of a bright worldly career, forego all to consecrate their lives to the service of God. The incorporation of the following scriptural texts in the address made it most effective: "And every one that hath left house, or brethren, or sister, or father, or mother, or lands, for My name's sake shall receive a hundred fold and shall possess life everlasting." "For what doth it profit a man if he gain the whole world and suffer the loss of his soul?" "Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither hath it entered into the heart of man, what things God hath prepared for them that love Him." At the conclusion of the address the ceremony of investment took place and the candidates received their religious names by which they will be known as Christian Brothers.

GETTING READY.

Members of Division 3 Are Urged to Attend Certain Functions.

Division 3, A. O. H., had a fairly well attended and interesting meeting Monday night. President Patrick Welsh presided. Patrick King tendered his resignation as Financial Secretary, on the ground that it interfered with his business affairs. Daniel J. Dougherty was appointed to fill the unexpired term. Secretary J. F. Morris was instructed to notify all the members of the impending nomination and election of officers and to request their attendance on those occasions. The nominations will be made on November 20 and the election will be held on the evening of December 4.

MACKIN COUNCIL CLUB.

Mackin Social Club will give another of its popular dances on Monday evening. Members of all the councils in the Falls Cities are invited to attend. The members of this club have also arranged to give a special dance on the evening of Wednesday, November 20, Thanksgiving eve.

PENNIES

Of the Poor Raise Churches Offener Than Dollars of the Rich.

An Instance of Where the Widow's Mite Played a Part.

The Manner in Which You Give Is the Thing That Counts.

A LITTLE OLD OHIO LADY'S GIFT

At Akron, Ohio, recently Bishop Horstmann consecrated the beautiful new Church of St. Bernard, erected at a cost of $160,000. This edifice, says the Catholic Universe, has the distinction of being the first house of worship in the Cleveland diocese and the second in the country to be consecrated before its opening.

Everything in and about the church is complete. The building was begun less than four years ago, with only a fourth of the funds on hand. The parish is large, but not rich, and the gifts of outside donors, while generous, have not been many enough to explain the remarkable accomplishment. How was it done?

"In one of the front pews at the imposing ceremonies on Sunday," says our Cleveland contemporary, "sat a little old woman in a rusty black gown that had seen more seasons, perhaps, than his wearer could count. Her gloveless hands were work-worn and hard. Her face was seamed with those grim lines that struggle and poverty imprint on those who live with them. Her fingers circled a big wooden rosary as the service proceeded, but her eyes traveled from altar to window, from window to the painted garlands that wreathed the dome. No beauty escaped her and when her eager glance rested at last on the tabernacle it was full of an ineffable content. Dome and arches burst into radiance at the tinkle of a bell, but their glow was hardly brighter than the answering light of her dazzled eyes. She smiled at her little grand-daughter and the child smiled back with delight, and the smile of old face, wrinkled and weathered as it was, was as child-like and as spontaneously happy as the little one's. She had thirty-five cents knotted in the corner of her handkerchief, and long before the collection time she painfully untied the knots and got her offering in readiness. She and the child watched the process of the collection basket with anxious glances. Once the old pastor passed them by just as she had risen and stretched forth her trembling hand to give. Her face colored with disappointment, but the little girl reassured her, and when finally the basket paused in front of her and she was able to add her treasured coins to the larger store her pleasure was so genuine and infectious that it must have made her little gift bigger in heaven than all the rest."

"It was thus, one guesses, that St. Bernard's church was built. It is thus that Catholic churches rise everywhere in the midst of the homes of the poor. And whether the gift is thirty-five cents or thirty-five dollars, whether it represents the washwoman's best or the banker's, its building power lies less in its size than in the fact that it is as cheerfully and universally given."

"And if the little old lady and her cheerful mite suggest how the beautiful new temple was built and paid for, her simple joy and pride in its beauty also help to tell why. Her expression was duplicated on a thousand faces, as if many who were poor in their own homes were made rich by the right to enter and enjoy the common home the church provides for all her children, as if many starved souls had found here a satisfaction for that hunger for beauty they had not hoped for this side of that city of the jasper walls and gates of pearl where there shall be no need for the light of the lamp or the light of the sun."

HONORS FOR COLUMBUS.

Members of the Knights of Columbus will be pleased to know that Cardinal Richelmy, Archbishop of Turin, has accepted the Presidency of an international committee which is being formed in Italy for the commemoration of the fourth centennial of the death of Christopher Columbus on May 20, 1906, by the erection of a magnificent monument in the Vatican to the great discoverer of America. At the same time steps are being taken to recall to life the movement for his canonization.

It is not generally known that at the Vatican Council thirty-six years ago a large number of the Archbishops and Bishops present signed a petition to Pope Pius IX. to admit the inauguration of the necessary steps to this end in the Congregation of Rites, and even after the council prelates in different parts of the world made individual appeals to the Holy See about the matter.

TRIP FOR TIERNEY.

John Tierney, of the International Tobacco Workers' Union, has gone to Pittsburgh, where he will represent the city as a delegate to the annual of the American Federation which opens today.

CONGRATULATIONS.

Congratulations, but no advice, the Kentucky Irish American offers the newly elected Democratic officials. Many editors feel it an inherent duty to tell a new Mayor and his colleagues what they ought to do in administering public affairs. The men who won the victory at the polls in the city of Louisville and county of Jefferson last Tuesday are clear headed and well balanced. The Democratic nominees know that they have been elected to perform certain duties, and it is the belief of the Kentucky Irish American that the officers-elect will do whatever is for the best interests of the city and State. Mr. Barth has proven his ability as a business man. Having unbounded faith in his integrity and ability, we believe that he will give the city a progressive and just administration. This is his home. He was born, raised, educated and received hard knocks in his early business career in Louisville. Here he married. A Louisville girl was the wife of his bosom. It was in this city that her remains were buried in hallowed ground. It is here that Paul Barth is raising and educating his three sons. Keeping all these things in view, can any one believe that Mr. Barth will prove recreant to the trust reposed in him? We think not.

FOR HOME INDUSTRIES.

Quite a good deal has been published within the past few weeks in our daily papers in reference to keeping all our money at home if possible—in other words, to patronize home industries. The Commercial Club has shown the right spirit when it asks all Louisville people contemplating new buildings to give the preference to Louisville architects and contractors. The money these architects and contractors receive will be spent here, because they will buy Louisville material and employ local labor.

The same idea should prevail all along the line. If the merchants, manufacturers and citizens will buy their goods at home and employ home labor Louisville will soon be one of the leading cities of the country. No doubt there are many things manufactured here that are equal if not superior to any in the country, and yet some of our people send away to buy these articles.

For instance, Louisville merchants import coffee as pure as any that comes to American shores. Local coffee men have the latest improved devices for roasting this coffee and they employ local men to handle it. Strange to say, there are jobbers and consumers here who send to New York, Chicago and other places for coffee when they can buy a purer and better article right here. We have only used coffee as an example because we are sure of the facts. Doubtless other merchants have similar experience in handling different goods. Home industries must be patronized if you want a greater Louisville.

ANGLO-SAXON NONSENSE.

As a rule the Associated Press is unbiased in its reports. People who support it demand fairness, but like all human institutions it is fallible. As an instance last Friday the Associated Press put out an account of the reception at Annapolis of the Admiral Louis of Battenberg. In describing the inspection of the ship by the midshipmen the Associated Press correspondent tells us: "Three sides of the parade ground, three and four deep, stood British and American officers, looking out across the deep blue water of the Severn river toward their common home on the bounding main, Anglo-Saxons all—all brothers of the sea."

Shade of Jack Barry! Anglo-Saxons all! What will Capt. Coughlin, of "Hoch der Kaiser" fame, say to this Anglo-Saxon business? Are the Kellys, Burkes and Sheas in the navy Anglo-Saxons? The Associated Press man has evidently overdrawn his account on the bank of his own imagination.

DOWN TO WORK.

As had been predicted by the Kentucky Irish American, the Democratic nominees for city and county offices were elected on Tuesday. The campaign was a strenuous one, but the victory fell to the party with the best organization. It is the duty of every citizen to vote and to vote the way his conscience dictates. The man who does less does not deserve to vote. It was a victory well won and in our opinion a victory that is for the best interest of every department of the city and county government. While the Kentucky Irish American hastens to congratulate Mayor-elect Barth and his colleagues it has no words of opprobrium to utter against the opposing nominees of the Fusionist party. From the nomination of the Democratic candidates until the close of campaign the Kentucky Irish American has maintained an aggressive but dignified fight for Democratic supremacy. Now it has no regrets, no apologies. We believe that as Mayor, Paul C. Barth will give the city a clean administration, and we further believe that within a year many of those who fought strenuously against the election of the Democratic ticket will realize that the best has happened. Now let us all get down to business, forget politics, and work for the best interests of our city and State.

The reports of Jewish massacres in Russia during the past week have been appalling. Russia, too, pretends to be a Christian country. It is time for the civilized powers of the world to put a stop to these wholesale murders. The Russians evidently forget that our Saviour and His blessed mother were Jews. Sometimes that is forgotten even in America. The Jews make good citizens in whatever country they are located. They take care of themselves and of their property. They treat their families well. A Jew seeking relief in a divorce court is as great a rarity as an Irish Catholic seeking relief from the same source. It is a bad omen when you want liberty for yourself but deny it to someone else, and particularly when he differs from you religiously.

George J. Butler, the newly elected Alderman, brought an element of strength to his party that was very necessary on election day. Alderman Butler will make his mark as a legislator and it need not surprise you if he is appointed on the Finance Committee. If he is the city's interests will be carefully guarded.

The press of the United States effectually squelched "Mrs. Warren's Profession." This infamous drama lasted only one night. Now let the press consider its own shortcomings and stamp out political blackguardism. There is no time like the present and no place like Louisville to make a beginning.

SOCIETY.

Ben J. Gerst enjoyed a brief rest at West Baden this week.

Miss Ethel Davis is the guest of Miss Ione Malone, at Middletown.

Miss Mollie McCarthy, of 2122 Bank street, entertained at euchre yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Florian Crush entertained at euchre at her home in the Highlands on Wednesday.

Mrs. J. C. Perkins, of Bowling Green, is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carroll.

Mrs. Tulo Buckman, of New Haven, Ky., is undergoing treatment at St. Anthony's Hospital.

Miss Anna McGill, of Jeffersonville, has gone to visit relatives and friends in Texas and Kansas City.

Miss Georgia Ferrell, of New Haven, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Thompson, 1627 Vernon avenue.

Mrs. Thomas Martin has returned from Springfield, Ky., where she was the guest of Mrs. Henry Leachman.

Mrs. John Burke has returned to her home at Lexington, after a brief visit to her mother, Mrs. Rose Guy, of Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob B. Obligschlager and children are visiting Mrs. Obligschlager's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hermann, at Augusta, Ga.

Charles Gravia, who suffered from a severe attack of pneumonia, has fully recovered and is able to receive the congratulations of his friends.

Mrs. Tony Norton, of Pittsburg, will return to her home Saturday, having been here to attend the funeral of her aunt, Miss Margaret McGee.

Miss Margaret Durling has gone to Imboden, Va., to accept a position with the Imboden Coal and Coke Company. Her many friends wish her success.

Mayor-elect Paul C. Barth left for West Baden Springs Wednesday and spent several days there. Mr. Barth had been through a strenuous campaign and needed the rest.

Miss Mary Martin and Peter Roberts, well known young people of Floyd county, Ind., were united in matrimony by the Rev. Father Hillebrand at St. Mary's-of-the-Knobs church on Monday morning.

Henry J. H. Koch, of New Albany, and Miss Theresa C. Lilly, of Lanesville, Ind., were united in matrimony at St. Mary's church, Lanesville, on Tuesday morning. The Rev. Father Pechakamp officiated.

Mrs. Nellie Hawkins, 1718 West Chestnut street, and a popular teacher in the Portland public school, who has been ill for several weeks, is rapidly recovering. Her many friends hope to see her out in a short time.

John E. Martin, a popular Hibernian, who recently underwent an operation at St. Mary and Elizabeth Hospital, is slowly recovering and his many friends hope to see him out soon. It is expected that he will be able to leave the hospital and return to his home, 1225 Churchill street, next week.

Charles F. Murphy and bride have returned from their wedding tour and are home to their friends at 3561 Greenwood avenue. The bride was Miss Edna Hester Talbot, of Bardonia. The groom is the junior member of the firm of C. T. Murphy & Son. They were married at St. Joseph's church, Bardonia, Wednesday of last week.

Miss Sylvia Cowles entertained a number of her friends at her home in the Highlands with a Halloween party. Among those present were Misses Marjorie Keeler, Agnes Mueller, Grace Boyd, Lorett Stites, Hannah Keeler and Anna Price, and Messrs. Clay Everston, Harry Campbell, Arthur Stollenkamp, Walter Stitz and L. Graham.

Miss Anna Reitz and Frank Gelbach were united in the holy bonds of matrimony at St. Martin's church on Wednesday morning. Miss Theresa Sessengood was maid of honor and Urban Gelbach was best man. After the ceremony the newly married couple went to Chicago on a bridal tour. Both Mr. and Mrs. Gelbach are popular in the East End.

Miss Anna Mae Carey became Mrs. Harry G. Stuart on Wednesday evening. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Patrick Walsh at the Sacred Heart church in the presence of a large gathering of their friends and relatives. After the ceremony the newly married couple were tendered a reception at the residence of the bride's parents, 1823 Maple street. The bride is the talented and pretty daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Carey. The groom is well known and popular.

Miss Mary Newman was tendered a delightful surprise party on Wednesday evening. An impromptu euchre was put in motion and for an hour or more the guests amused themselves with the pastebords. Miss Anna Noonan and George Smith won the prizes, while the booty went to Miss Sarah Lally. During the evening members of the invading surprise party gave vocal and instrumental selections, which were well received. Among those present were Misses Sarah Lally, Carrie Andriotti, Mamie Meyer, Lula Meyer, Anna Noonan, Gerlie Grieb, Margaret Noonan, Katie Newman, Sallie Finn and Alicia Noonan, and Messrs. John Grieb, Martin Stetson, George Schmitt, Edward Grieb, N. A. Norton, Mike Maher, W. J. Newman, Chester Stegner, Herschel Norton, John Malone, John Bailey, Denny Lally, John Lally and Fred Meyer.

MACKIN COUNCIL

Held a Strictly Business Session Last Tuesday Evening.

Mackin Council held a strictly business meeting Tuesday night. The attendance was fair, but as many members were anxious to hear the election returns President Kerberg rushed everything through. Sebastian Hubbuch was reported ill. Two new applications were received.

The members were reminded that the time to formally nominate their candidates for office is rapidly approaching. That auspicious event will take place on the evening of Tuesday, November 28, and the election will take place a week later. There are indications that two sets of candidates will be placed in the field. Each side will place the best men in nomination, but the contests though spirited will be fair and friendly.

SOCIAL SESSION

Will Follow Nomination For Officers of Division 4, A. O. H.

At the meeting of Division 4, A. O. H., Wednesday night John Kenefick, who had been ill, was reported fully recovered. John Martin was reported ill. A committee was appointed to draft a suitable expression of sympathy to be sent to John J. Barry, whose father died last week.

President Hennessy reminded those present that officers for the ensuing year would be nominated at the next meeting. He desired a full attendance on that occasion. In order that the evening may be spent pleasantly a social session will follow the nomination of officers.

Capt. Joseph P. McGinn announced that his team would bowl against a team from Trinity Council, V. M. I., next week.

AMIGO CLUB'S DANCES.

The Amigo Club, an organization of well known young men, has arranged to give one of its popular dances at Lewis Hall, Twenty-sixth and Portland avenue, on the evening of Friday, November 17, and also on Thanksgiving eve, November 26. The members of the club are F. B. Boyer, W. L. Martin, C. A. Koehler, J. A. Fichtner, A. G. Ramsay, C. G. Zengel, C. A. Reccius, C. G. Schang, J. J. Welsh, J. J. Koehler, S. H. Ramsay, A. G. Heins, J. B. Balles, J. W. Shafer, G. F. Heyold, C. W. Bruckert, C. H. Lemke and F. J. Deuser.

LADIES OF TRINITY.

The Young Ladies' Auxiliary of Trinity Council, V. M. I., have issued invitations to a euchre and dance to be given at Trinity Hall, 718 East Gray street, on the evening of November 15. Hand-some prizes will be awarded the winners of games and good music will be a feature of the evening. The following popular young ladies have charge of the arrangements and will assist in receiving the guests: Misses Anna E. Daly, Emma Huber, Anna Reister, Mary Heverin, Mayme C. Kieley, Lillie Hite and Joale Lawler.

FEDERATION.

The Jefferson County Catholic Federation held its regular session on Thursday night and fifty delegates were present. The Rev. Father Ackermann delivered an interesting address on "Catholic Unity." Other speakers were Messrs. Emmet Slattery and Newton G. Rogers. Dr. Frank Clark recommended that a list of good Catholic books be selected and that 10,000 copies of the list be printed for distribution. Dr. Joseph W. Fowler and Col. Michael Reichert endorsed Dr. Clark's opinion.

BEFORE COLUMBUS.

Bostonians are urging the erection of a monument in honor of St. Brendan, a Kerry man, who visited the shores of America several centuries before Christopher Columbus. The record of St. Brendan's achievement is of historic value, and it is to be hoped that the project for a statue in Boston will be successfully carried out.

NATIVE OF NEW ALBANY.

Col. Thomas J. Jackson, who was run over and killed at the Union depot, Kansas City, last week, was a native of New Albany and married a New Albany lady, Miss Louise Moore. At the outbreak of the civil war he enlisted as a Lieutenant and rose to the rank of Colonel. Since the war he had made his home in Kansas City.

WILLIS' NEW CAFE.

Tom Willis, formerly of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company, will tonight open a new cafe at Tenth and Dumesnil streets. The feature of the evening will be an elegant lunch. Tom is an exceedingly popular young man, and there is every indication that he will attract a large and lucrative trade.

INTEREST GROWING.

Interest in the euchre to be given at Mackin club house on the afternoon and evening of Thanksgiving day is increasing. Several popular young ladies have entered the race for prizes in the ricket sailing contest. All funds accruing from the euchre will be devoted to the uses of the gymnasium class.

MAKING IRISH YANKEES.

A telegram from New York says that Col. J. A. Kavanagh, an insurance agent who collected $87,000 commissions last year in South Africa, before leaving for Capetown, via England, on the Baltic, explained a scheme which he has for the improvement of the condition of Ireland, which is, in brief, to Americanize the rising generation of Irishmen. "To do this," he said, "would be the simplest thing in the world. It is a matter of education simply. The Irish priests should be sent to America to observe and study conditions, while priests of Irish parentage educated in America should be sent to Ireland. Then would follow the work of Americanizing the Irish youth, which, I believe, could be accomplished through the aid of American teachers in a decade. There would then be planted the germ of a race of Irish Yankees, and in two generations no nation on the face of the earth would or could beat them."

COURTESY

Is Always a Marked Trait of the Peasantry of Ireland.

The special characteristic of the Irish peasants, according to Frank Mathew, in "Ireland," is an old fashioned courtesy. They are all sure, he asserts, that they are descended from chiefs and their manners are ruled accordingly.

Take shelter in any hut on the mountains and you will be greeted as if its inmates had been longing to see you. This will not be due to the fact that they seem prosperous; indeed, you would be even more graciously welcomed if you were in rags. Nor is their courtesy only exhibited when they are hosts. Once when I was exploring the Burren of Clare a ragged old woman seated by the wayside accosted my equally ragged driver. "Excuse me, sir," she said, "but did you happen to meet a loaf on the road?" "Deed, then, ma'am," said he bowing respectfully, "and I'm sorry I did not." "Who was she?" I asked him when he had driven out of her hearing. "Deed then, and I don't know," said he. "This same poor soul that has lost her loaf and will be going to bed hungry tonight." On another occasion an aged man, clad in knee breeches and a swallowtail coat, addressed me as I was climbing a path in Connemara. "I am thinking, sir," said he, "that you are John Blake."

"Well, sir," said I, "you are thinking wrong." "Well, sir," he answered solemnly, "says I to myself as I saw you come up the side, that is John Blake, and if 'tis not, says I to myself, 'tis a fine upstanding young man he is, whoever he is." Now I am convinced that he knew I was a stranger, but was not that a charming way to suggest that I should sit beside him on the low ferry wall and discuss the ways of the world?

What They Have Been Doing the Past Week—General News Notes.

Division 1 will meet in regular session Tuesday night.

Division 2 will meet on Friday night and a good attendance is desired.

The Ladies' Auxiliary will hold a business meeting Wednesday evening.

A new division is to be instituted at Florence, Mass., before the new year.

The State officers of Minnesota paid a visit to Division 3 of Minneapolis last Sunday.

Three degrees were conferred on a large class of candidates at Centerville, Mont., last week.

The Gaelic-speaking division of Boston has arranged to give Dr. Douglas Hyde a reception.

Pennsylvania has more divisions than any State in the Union; Massachusetts is next and New York third.

At Everett, Mass., the new division, less than four months old, has arranged to initiate its 100th candidate.

Since January 1 seven members of Ladies' Auxiliary 2 of San Francisco have entered the matrimonial state.

In Syracuse the division located in St. Vincent de Paul's congregation will initiate a large class next week.

The money in the treasuries of the various auxiliaries in Boston exceeds that of the amount in the various divisions.

The illustrated entertainment given recently at Hibernian Hall in St. Louis for the Cork National monument was a grand success.

The Ladies' Auxiliary to Division 1 of St. Louis gave its second annual ball last night. Both Divisions 1 and 3 are making rapid progress.

The Wilmington, Del., Hibernian Rifles visited Baltimore recently and were elaborately entertained by the Hibernians of that city.

Although Ladies' Auxiliary 5 of Salem, Mass., is only nine months old, it now has 168 members and holds the record for rapid growth.

The four divisions of Columbus, Ohio, have made arrangements for a joint initiation during this month. A number of out-of-town guests and speakers have been invited to be present.

The Syracuse County Board has decided that black felt hats will supplant silk hats next St. Patrick's day. It was also arranged to give an entertainment in honor of Robert Emmet's birthday.

At Utica, N. Y., the Rev. Father Duddy lectured Monday night before Division 2. His lecture dealt with what he saw during his recent trip through Ireland. Standing room was at a premium.

State and county officers of the A.O.H. and Ladies' Auxiliaries graced the anniversary social of Division 6, Ladies' Auxiliary, at Providence. The officers of all the divisions and military companies took part in the festivities.

RESOLUTIONS OF SYMPATHY.

The Falls City Bowling League, of which John J. Barry is President, held a called meeting Thursday night to take appropriate action on his father's death. After the members had voiced their expressions of sympathy, the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, Almighty God in His infinite wisdom has seen fit to call from this earth the beloved father of our President, John J. Barry; and

Whereas, We realize that a near and dear one has been taken from him, and one whose place can never be filled in this life; therefore be it

Resolved, That we assure our President of our deepest sympathy for him and his in this their hour of great affliction, and that we lovingly refer them to that Savior whose promises are, "I will not leave you comfortless. I am with you always, even unto the end of the world."

MARTIN DELANEY DEAD.

Martin Delaney, for many years one of Louisville's most respected citizens, died at his home, 2312 West Market street, Sunday evening. He had suffered from asthma during the past year, but had only been confined to his bed one week.

William Redmond and wife received an enthusiastic welcome and were tendered a reception at the Mansion House. Michael Slattery, an old man recently evicted from his farm at Irishtown, County Mayo, is dead as the result of exposure.

Members of the Irish hierarchy have issued an appeal for aid for the sufferers from the recent earthquakes in the south of Italy.

The Gaelic League has passed resolutions thanking the Irish Bishops for the stand they took in regard to the Irish language.

The Mellifont Abbey bazar in aid of the building fund of the new church at Tullyallen, County Louth, was opened by Cardinal Logue.

The annual general meeting of the Catholic Truth Conference was held in the Round Room of the Mansion House in Dublin. Cardinal Logue presided.

The Hon. John Daly, who was elected to Parliament from the County Cork in 1880 and was a colleague of the late Charles Stewart Parnell, died recently at Monkstown.

A great Nationalist demonstration was recently held at Killentiers, near Killybegs. David Moriarty, Chairman of the Kerry County Council, was one of the speakers.

Thomas McDermott, of Lisdoolyville, County Armagh, is hale and hearty at 110 years. He still appreciates his pipe and can ride his horse to the forge without apparent effort.

After a full and fair discussion by members of the Letterkenny District Council it has been decided that only married men can obtain laborers' cot tags as the council's tenants.

The joint committees of the Cork corporation and Cork Harbor boards have agreed on plans for bridging the Lee and connecting the railways on the north and south sides of the river.

The past season has been a record breaker as far as tourists were concerned. Not only were there many travelers from the United States and Canada, but more than 5,000 paid flying visits from the Isle of Man.

"The New Ireland" was the subject of T. O'Loughlin's lecture before the Dillon-O'Brien branch of the United Irish League at Bradford. It was the first of the winter series of lectures and was well attended.

At the last meeting of the Irish hierarchy held at Maynooth a series of resolutions were passed dealing with Irish in the National schools, the treasury and the Board of National Education, the attendance of Catholics and non-Catholics and emigration and its attendant evils.

The fifth conference of school managers, inspectors and teachers of the city and county of Cork was held a few days ago. These meetings, although inaugurated twelve months ago, have become an interesting feature of educational life in the city of Cork and the surrounding districts.

His Eminence Cardinal Logue delivered an address at the opening of the new home for orphan and destitute children in Belfast, and took occasion to warn the people of Ireland against the dangers of secular education. He urged that the people should take warning from what has happened in France and other countries.

A life-size marble statue of the Most Rev. Dr. Crotty, a former Archbishop of Armagh and Primate of All Ireland, is about to be erected in St. Patrick's Cathedral, Armagh. The work is by John Gibney, sculptor, the base being from designs of Ashlin and Coleman. The pedestal is of white Sheepshead limestone, richly molded and octagonal in shape. Starting from a square the shaft is divided in panels of neatly executed tracery work. The height of the pedestal is ten feet six inches and it weighs eleven tons. The whole when completed will be a work of art.

OUR BIG REMODELING

PIANO SALE

IS STILL GOING ON.

As we stated in the beginning, we had to dispose of at least 400 Pianos, and we will have to do so before our plans of remodeling can be started.
A Piano sale like this is not offered the public every year, and we see no reason why every one should not take advantage of it.
A chance of a lifetime to obtain a good Piano for a little money. Why let it pass without at least coming in to see just what you can do—a good idea, don't you think? Your car fare will be well invested if you only come in to look at our Piano bargains. Now is the time.

BRUNN JEWELRY HOUSE

530 WEST MARKET STREET.

FIRST FAIR
Of the Season Will Be Given For a Worthy Cause.
Tastefully decorated and adorned with many valuable articles is the parochial school of St. Frances of Rome church, Clifton, where a fair will open Monday night and will continue one week. Every night during the past week committees and sub-committees have met and completed arrangements for the approaching fair. Every member of the parish has taken an active interest in the work, much to the gratification of the pastor, the Rev. Father Thomas W. White. The funds realized from the fair will be devoted toward paying off the remaining debt of the church, and it is Father White's intention to lay the cornerstone of a new and more substantial edifice on June 26, 1906.

The people of Clifton invite their friends all over the city to join with them in making the fair a success.

SUDDEN DEATH
Came to Charles Devlin, a Millionaire Coal Mine Operator.
Charles J. Devlin, of Topeka, Kas., who died at Chicago on Thursday of last week as the result of paralysis, was one of the best known business men in the West. He was born in St. Louis of Irish parents fifty-five years ago. When he was quite a small boy his parents removed to La Salle county, Ill. After a few years at school he entered the employment of the Union Coal Company as an office boy. His services were so efficient that after a short time his employers placed a block of stock to his credit. This gave young Devlin his start in business. A few years ago he was made President of a big coal company operating over 35,000 acres in Illinois. In 1889 he went to Kansas to assume charge of the Santa Fe's system of coal properties. In all his career he was eminently fair with his employees and never had any serious labor troubles.

At Frontenac, Ill., where he owned two large mines, he erected a Catholic church at his own expense. He encouraged his men to own their own homes and sold them property on installments. Several months ago Mr. Devlin became financially involved, and it is believed the shock was responsible for the paralytic stroke that caused his death.

It has developed that Mr. Devlin's affairs were not so badly involved, and that after all his obligations have been paid the family will receive $500,000. His funeral took place at La Salle, Ill., where the solemn requiem mass was celebrated.

NICE IF TRUE.
A recent cablegram from Rome states that his Holiness Pope Pius X. has become a base ball enthusiast. According to the cable message the Pope recently witnessed a game of base ball played by the young men attending the American College in Rome and applauded good strokes and brilliant catches.

"It is no wonder the American students do so well," his Holiness declared, "when they play so well. I hope to see the young of Italy follow the example of

AMUSEMENTS.
Another excellent bill is promised by the management of the Hopkins Theater for next week. Col. G. Bordeverry, the famous marksmen and sharpshooter, is billed as the headliner. Of course there will be excellent artists in comedy and acrobatic lines. New pictures will be presented by the kinodrome. There will be a matinee every afternoon.

"Marching Through Georgia," a stirring drama of the civil war, will be the attraction at the Masonic Theater all of next week. There is said to be a vein of tender romance gracefully woven through a series of sensational stage pictures. The drama will be presented by a splendid company.

Otis Skinner comes to Macaulay's Theater Monday and Tuesday nights in the picturesque and sparkling drama, "His Grace De Grammont," written for him by Clyde Fitch. On Wednesday evening the Philharmonic Society will give a concert. "The Isle of Bon Gong," a new musical comedy, will hold the boards Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings and Saturday matinee.

Whallen and Martell's Kentucky Belle's Extravaganza Company will present a new and original farce, "Murphy's Mistake," at the Buckingham Theater next week. No expense has been spared in staging the production and costuming of the artists. The famous little fighter, Jimmy Britt, will appear at each performance with Frank Raphael as a sparring partner. Matinees will be given each day.

SIMPLE ROUTINE.
Only routine business was transacted by Trinity Council, Y. M. I., last Monday evening. One application for membership was received and two new members, Emil Lehman and John Strubel, were obligated. Henry Bosse and Will Gast are still on the sick list.

PRETTY CONTEST

Promised Between Rival Candidates For Presidency of Mackin.

What will doubtless be a pretty contest is the coming race for President of Mackin Council. The rival candidates are Charles Raidy and Ben Sand. Both are ardent Y. M. I. workers and they are among the oldest members of that council. For years both have served the order faithfully and unselfishly. Not only have they worked in the ranks, but both have served as officers and both have served on committees where there was plenty of hard work. In each and every instance Messrs. Sand and Raidy has given his best work in the interest of Mackin Council and the entire order. As is natural, both men have ardent admirers, and these admirers want to see their respective champions elected. Each man is out to win, but the contest will be free from bitterness. Both know how to take defeat like men. If Sand is elected Charles Raidy will be the first to congratulate him. If Raidy is elected Ben Sand will give him his loyal support. The only regret is that Mackin Council can not have two such Presidents.

USEFUL CITIZEN

Was Patrick Newman, a Former Councilman at Frankfort.

Patrick Newman, a former Councilman at Frankfort, died at his home in that city on Monday afternoon. He had been ill only a few days and death resulted from uremia, superinduced by kidney trouble. The deceased was born in Cork, Ireland, fifty-seven years ago, but had passed the greater part of his life in Frankfort, and was one of her most substantial and respected citizens. He was a life-long Democrat. A widow, who was formerly Miss Emma Felkerson, of Louisville, and five children survive him. The children are Mrs. James E. Brennan and Lambert Newman, of Louisville, and J. P. Thomas and James L. Newman, of Frankfort. The funeral took place from the Church of the Good Shepherd on Wednesday morning.

CHAMPIONS TO BOWL.

The crack Gunther Bowling Team of Chicago, winners of the last national tournament in which 247 other teams participated, will bowl at Grotes' alleys, Jefferson street, this afternoon and evening and tomorrow afternoon. They will have as opponents the Owens and Old Foresters, Louisville's two star pin-smashing aggregations, who defeated the Gunthers in contests here last May. The intense rivalry existing between the teams will result in hotly contested games. Bowlers who can "spare" the time should not "miss" these contests.

AFTER BIG GAME.

Judge James P. Gregory, George Sehon, Jack Barnett, Julius Hild, Edward Bell, "Squire" C. D. Alsop, Dr. Applegate, Dr. Kinney, County Attorney R. W. Bingham and Edward Kraft left Tuesday at noon for Mississippi, where they will spend two weeks hunting deer and bears. The hunting party took along an express car loaded with provisions and camping outfits.
